Automation Execution

The Tools like playwright execute your automated tests, while allure collect test results and generates an interactive HTML report showing passed test, failures, screenshots, steps, and execution details.

Report Generation

It is the process of converting raw automated test results into a readable report that summarizes execution status, failures, duration, test steps, and supporting evidence.

Failure Analysis

It is the systematic process of investigating failed automated tests to determine the underlying cause, identify whether the problem is the application or the test environment, and decide what corrective action is needed.
